DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. Claims 13 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zhou et al.

Zhou et al (6,402,931) show apparatus comprising processing solution supplying means (218) for supplying a processing solution over a surface to be polished at least substantially parallel to the surface, (see Fig. 2, 3B and 11; col. 8, lines 24-35; and col. 15, lines 35-44), and is shown to be useful for machining (polishing) passive oxide films on a workpiece surface (see col. 9, lines 60-65).

The reference appears to demonstrate the conventional cathode-anode relationship found in electropolishing, i.e., workpiece being anodic and tool being cathodic. (Claim 18).

The reference does not specifically recite preferentially removing projecting film by the shear stress of the processing solution".

It would be considered within the skill of the art to removing any projecting film (on the protuberances of the workpiece surface) by polishing action being the result of "shear stress" from the electrolyte directed at the workpiece surface because the reference operates to remove protuberances which are considered an obvious form of "projection portions" which removal would operate to "flatten" the workpiece surface. (Col. 9, lines 15-17).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claim 13 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
6. Claim 13 recites the limitation "the film formed outside of the interconnection grooves by a shear stress" in lines 6-7. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 14-17 and 19-35 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
8. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The references of record do not show or suggest polishing apparatus which has a cathode member arranged to face a surface having a film on the surface to be polished, means to supply processing solution over the surface to be polished at least substantially parallel to the surface and removing preferentially projecting portions of the surface film by the shear stress of the processing solution, a power supply for supplying voltage to the cathode and the film as an anode, and wherein the film comprises a copper film.
